

Medical Report Generation

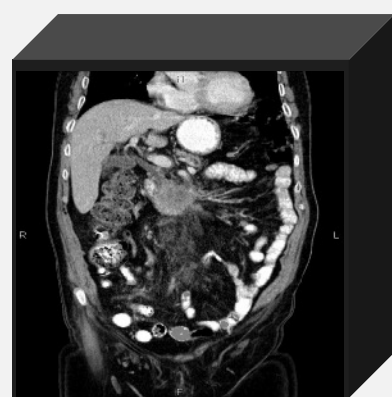

Question: Can you provide a description consists of findings of this medical scan?

Ground Truth: Homogeneous low density mass lesion is seen filling the entire right maxillary antrum. It protrudes through the widened maxillary antral ostium into the corresponding choana to reach the posterior nasopharynx.

Ours: There is a polypoidal soft tissue mass partially filling the right maxillary sinus and extending into the nasal cavity through the widened secondary maxillary ostium. posteriorly, the polyp protrudes through the choana into the nasopharynx.

M3D: There is a bony defect of the right maxillary sinus floor, opposite to the extraction site of tooth 16, where theree is a bony fragment corresponding to a retained root. Bilateral peripheral thickening of of the maxillary sinuses mucosa. Multiple bilateral apical protrusions of dental roots within the maxillary sinuses.

Medical VQA (Close-ended Question)

Question: Where is the 8mm stone located within the right kidney?

Choices: A. Lower calyx
B. Middle calyx C. Upper calyx
D. Pelvis

Ground Truth: C. Upper calyx

Ours: C. Upper calyx

M3D: C. Upper calyx

Question: Where is the abnormality located within the eye?

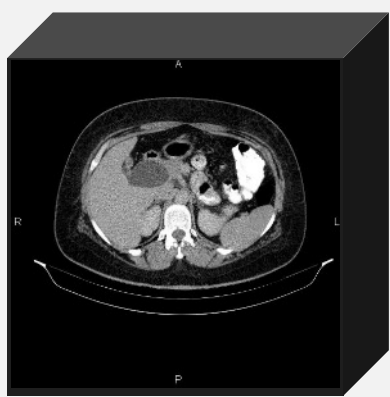

Choices: A. Upper left quadrant B. Lower right quadrant
C. Nasal side D. Temporal side

Ground Truth: C. Nasal side

Ours: C. Nasal side

M3D: A. Upper left quadrant

Medical VQA (Open-ended Question)

Question: Which organ shows calyseal dilatation in the image?

Ground Truth: Right kidney

Ours: Right kidney

M3D: Kidney

Question: Which organ has a subtle area of hypoenhancement anteriorly?

Ground Truth: Spleen

Ours: Spleen

M3D: Pancrease